Task One

Read the text below. Then read the questions that follow it and choose the best answer to each question, marking your answers on your answer sheet.

Hi, Bridget,

I just want you to know that the whole class have decided to collect money and buy a present for Mrs Robson's fiftieth anniversary next Friday – let's face it, she's the best teacher we've had so far, and everyone loves her. (We were even thinking of having a party for her!) £2 per person should be enough, we agreed, because there's twenty-five of us who are pitching in. You'll join, won't you? Only Mary and Nikki have refused to, but you know what they are like.

Now, we're still not sure what to get her. Sandra suggested a vase or a tea-set, but that's so unoriginal, don't you think? Personally, I would go for wine glasses as a classic, but I think Mrs Robson's more a beer person. One other thing we all know she loves is coffee – "An espresso a day and life's more than okay," remember? We could go for a snazzy coffee-cup set, or a coffee table book – there's a luxury one on Modern Art out now, which looks - quite good. Any opinions?

Anyway, let us know what you think, and make sure the word doesn't spread. Mike and Tanya – do you know they are going out together now? – are in charge of the collection, so you'll need to get in touch with either of them.

Cheers,

Bill

21. Quite a few people in the class seem to dislike Mrs Robson.

A) True      B) False

22. The class will spend about £50 on Mrs Robson's present.

A) True      B) False

23. Two students will not contribute to the birthday gift.

A) True      B) False

24. The class may buy a piece of modern art for a present.

A) True      B) False

25. Mike and Tanya are going around contacting their classmates to collect money for the gift.

A) True      B) False

First Time in the Air

When Londoner John Mills flew in an aeroplane for the first time, he was frightened. He did not like the idea of being thousands of feet up in the air. “I also didn’t like the fact that I wouldn’t be in control,” says John. “I’m a terrible passenger in the car. I keep telling the driver what to do, and it drives everybody crazy.”

However, John couldn’t avoid flying any longer. It was the only way he could visit his grandchildren in Calgary, Canada. “I had decided I was doing it, I couldn’t let my family travel all the way here to visit me. It would be so expensive for them, and also tiring for the children – it’s a nine-hour flight!”

To prepare for the flight, John read a lot about planes. “I needed to know as much as possible before getting in that plane. I suppose it was a way of making myself feel better.” When he booked his seat, he was told that he’d be flying on a Boeing 747, once the largest passenger aircraft in the world, better known as a jumbo jet. “When I saw the jumbo for the first time, I couldn’t believe something so enormous was going to get up in the air and fly. I was further impressed when I saw how big it was inside, with hundreds of people!”

The biggest surprise for him was the flight itself. “The take-off was much smoother than I expected, though I was still quite scared until we were in the air. Then, I managed to relax, enjoy the food, and watch a movie, and the window view was spectacular. I even managed to sleep for a while – I never believed that would be possible. But the best reward of all was when I arrived in Canada and saw my son and his family. Suddenly, I felt so stupid about all the years I’d let my fear stop me from seeing the people I love most in the world.”

26. When John Mills first flew in an airplane, it was because

- A) he had decided to overcome his fear.
- B) he was eager to experience the thrill of flying.
- C) he wanted to see his family overseas.

27. John Mills read a lot about airplanes because

- A) he was curious to find out how they worked.
- B) he thought he would feel safer that way.
- C) he had come upon a book about them.

28. When he saw the jumbo jet for the first time, John Mills

- A) became even more scared.
- B) started to feel anxious.
- C) felt astonished at the size of it.

29. What surprised John Mills most about the flight was

- A) that the food was good.
- B) that the view was lovely.
- C) that he was able to sleep.

30. How did John Mills feel about his fears in the end?

- A) He felt he had wasted time being afraid.
- B) He understood it was okay to be scared.
- C) He realised that fear made him love his family.

High Schools in Denmark Embrace ChatGPT as a Teaching Tool

Since its launch last year, schools worldwide have struggled with students' use of the popular artificial intelligence (AI) chatbot ChatGPT amid cheating concerns.

An English teacher at a high school in Copenhagen noticed some students had submitted assignments done with the help of an AI tool, just weeks after the launch of ChatGPT. "I could see the students would use it without any kind of thought, and in that way, it becomes an obstacle to learning, and learning is the whole project here," she said. "But if we could change the way they use it so it becomes a tool for learning, we would have won a lot, both in terms of, well, giving the students a new tool for learning, but also in terms of the relationship with the students. If we speak with them about how to use AI, the whole idea that they can't talk to us about it because it's forbidden goes away. And whether or not you like it, and whether or not you think it's problematic, you have to realise that it is here. And if you drive it underground, then you stop all conversation about it”.

Now, five Danish high schools are encouraging the use of the technology in some classes, as part of a two-year project. In a recent English class, students were tasked with analysing a short story first by themselves and then using an AI chatbot. It's a lesson in the technology's abilities, but also its limitations.

Many educators are taking the opposite route – seeing a need for “ChatGPT-proof” test questions and assignments. For some, that means a return to paper exams, after years of digital-only tests. Other instructors are less concerned. Some students have always found ways to cheat, they say, and this is just the latest option.

31. What did the high school English teacher from Copenhagen notice soon after ChatGPT was launched?

32. Why was she bothered by the way the students were using it?

33. What are two benefits she sees about discussing how to use ChatGPT with students?

34. Why are some educators returning to paper exams?

35. Why aren't all educators concerned about student use of ChatGPT?

Nina: Hi, Bob. How are you doing?

Bob: Not too good, Nina! I just flunked the chemistry test. Mrs Hawk really hates me!

Nina: Well, you don't really make any effort, do you?

Bob: True, but that's not the reason!

Nina: Oh! What is?

Bob: You see, she and my mother went to college together, and they both fell for the same guy, Robert, because he was such a good guitar-player and everything. But it was my mother who married him, though he was thinking of proposing to Mrs Hawk.

Nina: Wait – do you mean Robert is your father?

Bob: Yes. And I'm named after him – Robert and Bob, you see. And our first dog was called Robin, but he died from choking on a bone last year. I think our neighbour, Mrs Lewis, gave it to him deliberately, because she claimed she couldn't sleep all night because of his bark. She should be in jail!

Nina: My God, Bob! But who told you all that about your mother and father and Mrs Hawk?

Bob: Mrs Lewis. She's poisonous, and loves to gossip.

Nina: I see. Well, life is tough, and you've had it tougher than most. But I can help you with the chemistry, if you want. You know I'm really good at it!

Bob: Really? You'd do that for me? Wow, thanks!

Nina: Yes, you can come over to my place and I'll go over all the important stuff with you.

Bob: Great! How about tonight?

Nina: Er... tonight I'm having Monica, and Lily, and Gina over. Oh, and Tanya, of course!

Bob: Ok, what's the problem? I like them all!

Nina: Well, it's a girl thing, you see, and we take turns hosting, and tonight it's mine. And we sit around in pyjamas, do our nails, watch romantic comedies, so guys aren't really welcome.

Bob: Well, what about Tuesday then?

Nina: Can't, I have my yoga class then. Wednesday... – no, that's for ballroom dancing. Thursday?

Bob: On Thursday I've got basketball practice.

Hello to all you early risers out there, and welcome to the hourly news edition on InfoTV3 at 7.00 AM! On the hour, sharp, here is the main news for today:

US president Bo Babbit has agreed to meet with Russian President Sergei Breznov in Moscow and discuss major global issues such as the ongoing recession, climate change, international policy and the future of Russian-American economic relations. Teenage eco-activist Gerda Binburg has announced that she will mobilise Green forces from around the world and storm Moscow in protest against the increasing level of carbon monoxide emissions, which none of the world powers, she claims, has paid serious attention to.

Meanwhile, UK Prime Minister George Turner is continuing to suffer from media accusations that in the last five years his wife, former fashion model Jayne Thompson, has spent nearly half a million pounds of taxpayers' money on hairdressers and cosmeticians for her five Dachshund dogs, and nearly three times as much on beauticians for her own good looks. The PM and his wife have denied each and every one of these allegations, calling them blatant lies.

In neighbouring France, reports of a mass tick infestation are scaring tourists away. The tourist industry has applied for additional state subsidies as it has suffered a loss of about 57% in the last six months, when the first report of the attack of the nasty bugs was made by a tourist sunbathing by the Seine. One business, however, is booming: the sale of insect sprays, lotions and various pesticides has soared.

Finally, from the world of the stars: pop diva Marla Kerrigan, 58, has announced both her retirement from the music scene and her intention to divorce her husband of twenty-three years, hip-hopper Mikie D. The reason? According to Marla, she is tired of the hypocrisy and vanity of show business and is now focusing all her attention on fulfilling her lifelong spiritual ambitions. Details of her move are yet to be disclosed, but she has already told her millions of fans that soon she will be leaving secular life for good and will be joining a Buddhist monastery in the Himalayas, which is known as a centre of Tibetan Buddhism and the living place of Dalai Lama. The only comment her husband Mikie has made so far is “I’m sure we will remain the best of friends, because Marla is a beautiful person.” Marla and Mikie’s seven children, five of whom were adopted, have so far been unavailable for comment.

We’ll be back after the commercial break. Stay tuned and thank you for being with us.

Presenter: Hello, and welcome to BookWormWorld! This week with us is novelist Rosemary Marigold, author of Number One international bestseller Dying for Daisy. Now, Rosemary, I admit I haven’t read that one of your novels yet, but...

Rosemary: Oh, you mean you’ve read all the others?

Presenter: No, but my mother-in-law’s a huge fan! Still, I’m curious about the title. Sounds like a murder mystery – or have you switched back to vampire romance?

Rosemary: If you mean Desire in the Dark, yes, that’s how I began, but since then I have adopted a more realistic mode and I am not thinking of going back.

Presenter: Realistic? All your stories are about poor young girls hooking up with mega-rich businessmen, or poor young boys marrying into the aristocracy. How often does that happen in real life?

Rosemary: But that’s just it! That’s the key! If you know how to love, then you will achieve it all – meet the right person, enjoy a successful career, live your dreams! And have a happy marriage, of course...

Presenter: Is there such a thing?

Rosemary: Of course! I should know – I’ve been married four times, and I love all my ex-husbands dearly, even if I divorced them! Not darling Tony, of course, who had that ridiculous accident with the horse on that French farm, or Pete, who was way too old and died before we had enough of each other.

Presenter: Is there a fifth one on the way?

Rosemary: Ha-ha, wouldn’t you just like to know?

Presenter: Right. Now, back to the new book – who’s dying for Daisy, and why does she need someone to die for her?

Rosemary: Now that’s something for your mother-in-law to find out! Ha-ha! Why don’t you read the book and see for yourself?

Presenter: OK. And are you already writing the next one, and what will it be called?

Rosemary: I am, yes. The title? Could be Romancing the Rose. Or Love among the Lilies.

Presenter: But wasn’t that the one that came out last year? Or was that Life in Lotus-Land?

Rosemary: No, it was Lust amidst the Lilacs. You really should do your research more carefully, you know. But I think I may settle for Violins for Violet. Good one, huh?

Presenter: Thank you, Rosemary, it’s been a real pleasure.
